Referring back to our original client notice dated 8 March 2014 introducing Skype as a so-called "backdoor communication method", and keeping up with changing technology, improved communication methods and client preferences, we have now abandoned the use of Skype as a communication method.

Referring back to our original client notice dated 10 March 2014, both our official contact details and remaining so-called "backdoor communication methods", as well as the terms of use, remain the same.

Please contact us, should you require any further advice or assistance.
